

Wide River to Cross

There's a sorrow in the wind
Blowin' down the road I've been
I can hear it cry while shadows steal the sun
But I cannot look back now
Come too far to turn around
And there's still a race ahead I must run

I'm only halfway home, I gotta journey on
Where I'll find the things I have lost
I've come a long long road
Still I got miles to go
I've got a wide, a wide river to cross

I have stumbled, I have strayed
You can trace the tracks I've made
All across the memories my heart recalls
But I'm just a refugee, won't you say a prayer for me?
'Cause sometimes even the strongest soldier falls

I'm only halfway home, I gotta journey on
Where I'll find the things I have lost
I've come a long long road
Still I got miles to go
I've got a wide, a wide river to cross
